ACTION: John Reid

£300m sex bug pledge

HEALTH Secretary John Reid has pledged £300million to tackle Britain's sex disease crisis.

The news came as figures revealed sexually transmitted infections are on the increase.

Some 53,000 are living with HIV in the UK, while cases of diseases like chlamydia have trebled in 10 years.

Dr Reid said: "We need to act now. Chlamydia is a particular worry, as it has no symptoms in many cases, but can lead to infertility."

BRITAIN LOSING WAR ON DRUGS

Teen abuse is rife

by MACER HALL

Political Editor

MORE schoolchildren in England have experimented with cannabis than in any other country in Europe.

And on a day when Tony Blair launched a crack-down on drugs, an EU report revealed that Britain has the worst record for cocaine abuse.

The Prime Minister and Home Secretary David Blunkett promised more tough measures including extra-long jail terms for pushers who peddle drugs near schools.

Unveiling the anti-drugs offensive, Mr Blair said: "We are offering a choice. If you are a drug addict engaged in crime you'll be offered a way out through treatment and help."

"If you refuse that offer, it will be made more difficult for you at every stage in the criminal justice system."

He said anyone with more than just a small quantity of drugs will be classed as a dealer and face prison.

Next January will also see a massive three-month blitz on crack houses.

Burglars and thieves will have drug tests. And more offenders will have to undergo tough drug rehab sessions as part of community sentences.

To highlight how tests will work, Mr Blair had a mouth-swab at a Slough police station. He joked: "My test was negative."

But Tory leader Michael Howard claimed Labour had failed to tackle the spiralling crisis.

Problems

He said: "Reality has not matched his rhetoric. Tony Blair's let people down."

The report from the European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction showed Britain and Spain have the worst cocaine problems.

Between 5% and 7% of people aged 15 to 24 in the UK and Spain admitted to using cocaine recently.

Around 42% of boys and 38% of girls aged 15 in England had tried cannabis, compared with less than 10% in Greece, Malta, Sweden and Norway.

The Home Office attacked the report for using "out-of-date" research.

Tony's text romp

CELL PHONE: Blair on his text session and in Slough nick

IT was a bizarre day for Tony Blair yesterday. First he went on air for a live chat as 6,000 voters bombarded him with texts. Then he toured Slough police station to publicise the fight on drugs, and ended up in the cells ... just for fun.

Here are a few of the texts answered by Tony Blair in the chat at 10 Downing Street.

☐ DAVID: If you could meet anyone living or dead who would it be?

PM: Probably the man I'm meeting tomorrow, Nelson Mandela.

☐ BOBBY: Is Britain prepared for a terrorist attack?

PM: As prepared as we can be. The security services are doing a great job to do that.

☐ LAURA: When are the Black Watch coming home, will it be before Christmas?

PM: It will be before Christmas. The exact date cannot be revealed for security reasons.

☐ BOO: Why are you banning fox hunting?

PM: Well, I'm not. The House of Commons is and it's a free vote of MPs. I wanted a compromise.

☐ VOODOO: Would you trust your wife to run the country?

PM: Well, fortunately that's not a question that's arising.

☐ MUSICO: You play guitar. Who'd be in your supergroup?

PM: I suppose the Beatles, Clapton, Mick Jagger...

☐ DOROTHY: Is it true you do an impression of John Prescott?

PM: No, not in his presence anyway.

☐ LEAH: Do you smoke yourself?

PM: What are your views on the smoking ban in Scotland?

PM: No i dont smoke but i used to. For 6 or 7 years. I quit as part of the marriage deal

☐ CHRIS: what is your favourite guitar solo?

PM: There is a great guitar solo on While my Guitar Gently Weeps written by G. Harrison

Iraq gun swoops

A HUGE weapons haul destined to be used against British and US troops has been discovered in Iraq.

The "stunning" array of guns, grenades and rockets was found in the former rebel stronghold of Fallujah by US-led forces.

Iraqi troops also uncovered a chemical weapons laboratory.

The finds came on the day the fight to save the Black Watch was lost. The regiment, serving in Iraq's Triangle of Death, will be merged with other Scottish units.

RANTING:
Sophie yells
at Natalie

The claws are out as camp mood turns ugly

JUNGLE warfare broke out on I'm a Celeb as the contestants exploded into tears and tantrums.

Almost the whole camp was involved in the bitching session as the celebrities finally showed their real feelings.

Sophie Anderton branded Natalie Appleton a "total bitch", while moaning Janet Street-Porter reduced Nancy Sorrell to tears.

And Sheila Ferguson blasted that Sophie needed to be put in her place. Show chiefs last night drafted in extra security around the camp to make sure the fiery contestants did

by PETER DYKE
in Australia

not copy Big Brother's infamous Fight Night earlier this year.

The day began calmly enough when comic Joe Pasquale, 43, was made leader for the day.

He told them: "Nobody should get upset. No one's to lose their temper." But within minutes they'd forgotten his plea as the rows kicked off.

First, Janet Street-Porter, 57, noticed Vic Reeves and his wife Nancy sneaking off for a kiss despite being the cooks for the day. She moaned to Pasquale and Paul Burrell: "If she does one more thing when she's supposed to work, I'm gonna go for her."

Nancy, 30, defended herself, but moments later she was weeping. She told Reeves: "Janet's just always having a go at me and I can't take it."

Out in the jungle, another fight was brewing. Natalie, 31, turned on Sophie, 27, blasting: "I'm a bit pissed off with you now. You are Miss Perfect for the camera. Every day it's 'Me, me, me'. You're a prima donna."

Sophie screamed back: "I'm not the one being a prima donna!"

When the girls returned to camp, the fight continued - as the other celebs lined up behind their pals.

Sobbed

Natalie confided in Sheila, 57, who said of Sophie: "She's superficial. She needs to be put in her place."

A tearful Nat then sobbed to Sophie in front of the whole camp: "All you care about is how you look." Sophie called Nat a "total bitch".

The girls finally kissed and made up, but Sophie later wept over it all in the Bush Telegraph.

And that wasn't the end of the tiffs. Paul Burrell, 46, chose the wrong answer for the Celebrity Chest, but the rest guessed right. As the prize was passed round, Antonio Fargas, 58, sniped at Burrell: "You're not getting any chocolate."

A show source admitted: "We have got security on hand. We do not want any fights in the camp."

Dec so hot for Sophie

■ by PETER DYKE
HOST Declan Donnelly has admitted he's got the hots for sexy Sophie Anderton.
The cheeky Geordie, who is single, reckons the sexy model is the most attractive jungle babe they have had on the show.
Smitten Dec, 29, said: "I think Sophie is the best we've got.
"The thing is, I didn't really realise how beautiful she was until she went into the show.

Pretty

"You always get to see how naturally pretty the women are by about day three or four and they don't have any make-up and everybody stinks.
"But they still look so beautiful - and Sophie is fantastic. I loved the press picture of her in her bikini. I might keep it."
Dec's presenting partner Ant, 29, also admitted he thought most of the women on I'm A Celebrity are stunning.
He confessed: "The girls are very pretty.
"Nancy looks gorgeous.
Fran was right when he said she was 'fit'."

Jord's
JUNGLE VERDICT

by MARK JEFFERIES

JORDAN reckons Nancy Sorrell has blown her chances of winning the show by lying to the group about her husband's arrival.

Nancy, 30, knew all along that Vic Reeves was going into the camp but didn't let on to the other contestants.

And Jordan, 26, said: "She has gone down a lot in my estimation."

"They were talking about whether anyone's partners would come in and she said about Vic, 'He won't come'."

"She shouldn't have said that, and the other contestants won't like it."

Jordan also slammed Sheila Ferguson for moaning about a lack of toiletries and luxuries.

Smell

She added: "She is in the jungle so what does she expect? She is going to smell."

"It gets worse as well but that's just part of the show."

"You can't ask for luxuries in there. Just get on with it."

Speaking about Brian Harvey's Bushtucker Trial, which many reckoned was the worst ever, Jordan told This Morning: "What me and Kerry (McFadden) did was worse."

"If you'd had that fish eye in your mouth, you would agree with me that it was worse."

Her fella Peter Andre, 31, said: "Maybe if he had to eat all the pies it would have been the worst one ever. He did his best, and at least he got two meals."

BURRELL IS A SCREAMER

PAUL BURRELL proved he's a real wimp - by screaming through a Bushtucker Trial.

The former royal butler won six meals for camp in the Temple of Doom despite his fear of snakes and creepy crawlies. As he was hit by eel slime and showers of bugs, the 46-year-old blubbed: "God this is sadistic."

Jungle Grapevine

TONY BLAIR was baffled when a local radio presenter asked him who would win this year's I'm A Celebrity show.

At the end of an interview on BBC Radio Kent, host Jenny Barsby asked the PM who he was backing to become King or Queen of the Jungle.

Mr Blair hesitated before saying: "Ooh, err, I don't know. Who do you think?"

After Ms Barsby suggested former All Saint Natalie Appleton, the PM said: "I will go with your answer. I do not think I am qualified to answer that."

JOE PASQUALE had an unusual way of describing Sophie and Natalie's verbal sparring.

Speaking in the Bush Telegraph about the row earlier that day, Joe said: "They both had faces like a slapped arse. All of a sudden a ballistic missile went off and that was it. It was just electric. I wasn't going to argue with Nat - not with a face like that on her.

"I'm so glad we had the washing line between them. Ring, ring. Round two!"

BRIAN HARVEY has threatened to quit because he is too hungry. The E17 singer said he may walk out once he has stayed long enough to earn cash for his chosen charity.

He announced to the other hungry hopefuls: "I don't know how much longer I can do it for... I'm being serious. I want a fing sandwich."

TV PIN-UP Kirsty Gallacher reckons the decision to bring in Vic Reeves has stirred things up nicely. The Scottish babe, who has turned down requests to go into the jungle herself, said: "It's a great show. And bringing Vic Reeves in has given it a nice twist."

ANT 'N DEC:
OUR FAVESREEVES 'N
NANCY GET
£150,000
MEGADEALEXCLUSIVE
by TOM SAVAGE

FUNNYMAN Vic Reeves and his model wife Nancy Sorrell have made a bundle by agreeing to their jungle love-in.

They have bagged a tasty £150,000 deal to appear together on I'm A Celebrity, it was revealed last night.

The passionate couple signed the megabucks contract three weeks ago.

But Nancy kept Vic's appearance secret from her camp-mates until he arrived in the jungle on Wednesday.

The joint contract is even bigger than the £100,000 Jordan picked up to appear on the show last February.

Livid

And it will make the other celebs on the current show furious – as some of them are on as little as £5,000.

A source said: "The celebrities are reasonable people. They know some people will be paid more than others."

"But they might not realise just how big some contracts are. One of the stand-bys is picking up only £5,000 and some of the others are on only £10,000."

"They will be livid that their contracts have been done on the cheap just so they could afford to get Vic involved."

The couple have moved into a treehouse that contestants built on the set.

But Vic's shock arrival has set tongues wagging, with Janet Street-Porter – a pal of the comic – saying producers had "pushed it too far".

She also moaned that if there were any "noises" from the treehouse that Vic, 45, and Nancy, 30, are sharing, she would leave.

But show bosses hope that having a couple in the camp will spice up the jungle action.

Naked

And they may not have long to wait – with Vic already threatening to go skinny-dipping with his gorgeous wife.

After Joe Pasquale went off to the lagoon to wash, Vic said: "Me and you will go down there tomorrow and get naked."

There are also rumours Brian Harvey's partner, model Emma B, may make an appearance as she has also flown out to Australia.

Vic's arrival has cut Nancy's chances of winning – with punters rating her 16-1, down from 12-1.

Ladbroke's Warren Lush said: "Viewers are not impressed by the way the jungle double act knew all along they would be reunited."

ALL STEAMED UP: The passionate couple get down to some serious snogging action

HOSTS Ant and Dec are perfect to give their verdicts on the contestants. Here are their views on the King or Queen of the Jungle...

SOPHIE

Dec: She's more down to earth than I imagined.

Ant: I thought she'd be stuck up but she's really got among it.

NATALIE

Dec: When she touched that tree and screamed, it was hilarious.

Ant: She is good. Very much like Kerry before. She was petrified on that high wire.

NANCY

Dec: She's brilliant, and clearly Fran likes her. I don't know how she kept that secret about Vic.

Ant: Interesting to see how she'll act now Vic is here. It could end up causing conflict.

JANET

Dec: In her own words she is a moany old cow, but with a bit of Johnny Rotten thrown in.

Ant: She is opinionated but makes me laugh.

SHEILA

Dec: She's handling things well. We joke she looks like a Janet Jackson of the future in that bra.

Ant: She is the biggest diva. I like her.

BRIAN

Dec: We are a bit worried about him but that Bushtucker Trial with the flies was cruel.

Ant: I've known him from our Smash Hits days and really like him. He is coping well.

FRAN

Dec: He has definitely got an eye for the ladies.

Ant: He's doing well – funny, cheeky and laddish.

JOE

Dec: All very interesting now there's another comedian in the camp.

Ant: I like Joe. Very genuine.

PAUL

Dec: Only the camp fire beats him in the camp stakes.

Ant: He is quite insecure.

HUGGY

Dec: Maybe when he is more mobile he'll liven up.

Ant: I can't make up my mind.

VIC

Dec: Sorry for him going in late.

Ant: Everyone likes him.

DES and Mel will be going head-to-head with Richard and Judy in the new year. It's ITV1's reward to Des O'Connor, 72, and Melanie Sykes, 33, for doubling their lunchtime ratings to nearly 2m.

The move's a blow for Channel 4's Richard and Judy who've already lost three million viewers to Paul O'Grady's rival show which is coming to an end.

Des said: "We are looking forward to the challenge."

HOPE: Waiting to cross from Calais

FLOODS of migrants will send Britain's population spiralling, official figures revealed yesterday.

An extra three million people will be living in the fastest growing areas within 25 years, a report claims.

The predicted population boom raised fears of massive pressure on housing, transport, schools and hospitals for decades. Last night, Home Secretary David Blunkett faced fresh calls to "get a grip" on immigration.

The official statistics revealed that populations in London and the south and east of England will swell by around 15% to about 30 million by 2028.

Only the north east will see fewer people living in the region over the same period. The shock figures were published by the Office of National Statistics.

Shadow Home Secretary David Davis said: "This demonstrates why David Blunkett needs to get a grip on immigration."

The biggest rise will be in the East Anglia at 16.8%, followed by 16.5% in the south west and 15.4% in London.

The north west and West Midlands will see 4.4% and 6.6% rises. Last night, Sir Andrew Green, of

FIFA in racism cop-out

by TONY LEONARD

BRITAIN's race relations chief has accused football's world governing body of a "cop-out" over racist chanting. Trevor Phillips, head of the Commission for Racial Equality, joined the row over the abuse dished out to England's black players in the game against Spain.

He blasted FIFA boss Sepp Blatter, even though Mr Blatter said he would have backed England if they had walked off the pitch in Madrid.

Mr Phillips said: "It is typical Blatter, a complete cop-out. They should give referees the authority to take them off. It should not be down to the players."

Halt

"What player is going to do that? As Sol Campbell said, it's giving in."

Arsenal boss Arsene Wenger also joined the debate over the chanting, which was directed at Ashley Cole and Shaun Wright-Phillips.

Wenger said racists could manipulate matches if they knew players were likely to walk off or referees could halt games.

More racist chanting was reported in the Real Madrid's Bernabeu Stadium this week.

Mr Phillips said the problem should be taken into account when assessing Madrid's bid for the Olympics in 2012.

But he added: "What you can't do is say 'Let's ban Spain' as it is too easy. "If you started doing that, most of Europe could find itself in trouble."

HEALTH chiefs are to cut £28 million of waste by axing sandwiches and biscuits from board meetings and reducing the colour used in photocopies. Alison Taylor, finance director in Suffolk, said: "We're doing little things but they count."

Fines are 'flawed'

A POLICE force yesterday told motorists to appeal against speeding convictions.

North Wales police posted letters to 6,500 people caught speeding since June last year, telling them that the case against them may have been flawed because of a legal hitch.

The force's chief Constable Richard Brunstrom, has caused controversy with his tough anti-speeding policy.

DID HUNTLEY RELATIVE SELL 'I CONFESS' TAPE?

THE VICTIMS: Holly Wells and Jessica Chapman, who were murdered by evil Ian Huntley

You say: Let him rot in hell

by STEPHEN RIGLEY

CHILD killer Ian Huntley should be left to "quietly rot in hell" for murdering best pals Holly Wells and Jessica Chapman.

Yesterday, the furious British public demanded that the monster should spend the rest of his days sitting silently in a cell.

They turned on Huntley after a sickening recording of him talking to a relative about how Jessica died ended up in the hands of a newspaper.

And last night prison authorities began inquiries into how the tape got to reporters. They will demand to know if it was sold.

Nearly 100% of people quizzed in a nationwide Daily Star poll blasted the twisted killer for lying in court and said they have no sympathy for his feeble excuses.

In a phone call to a close relative Huntley, 30, admitted lying in court about how 10-year-old Jessica was killed in his home.

The former caretaker also claimed "it hurt" when people referred to him as evil and that he was determined to commit suicide by going on

KERRY MYTHEN: 'Lock him up for ever'

PHIL HALL: 'He can rot in jail, or hell'

ZOE SMITH: 'I couldn't care less about him' hunger strike. He also claimed former girlfriend Maxine Carr had written to him in jail.

Yesterday details of this private phone call between Huntley and the relative were published.

If found to have paid for the tape, the trashy downmarket paper could face a rap from the newspaper watchdog, the Press Complaints Commission.

Furious residents in Soham, Cambridgeshire, where Holly, also 10, and Jessica lived, were united in calling for Huntley to rot in hell.

Graphic artist Phil Hall, 24, said: "I don't think anyone really cares what Huntley has to say, he's proved himself a liar. As far as I am concerned he can rot in jail, or hell if he kills himself."

Accountant Chris Cobb, 37, fumed: "If he kills himself it would save the taxpayer money that would be spent keeping him alive."

In Newcastle, model Zoe Smith, 17, said: "He should rot. I couldn't care less about his excuses."

Kerry Mythen, 27, a restaurant manager from Five Ways, Birmingham, said: "He should be locked away for ever."

Pain

James Walter, 21, a credit controller from Erdington, Birmingham, said: "He's a dangerous man who's lied about everything."

Shaun Curry, 32, a plasterer from East London, said: "I don't want to hear anything more about him unless it is that he is dead."

Student Nicola Johnson, 18, from Newcastle, said: "I would find it interesting to see why someone should do what he did."

Last night the Prison Service announced a review of the way all calls to Huntley are recorded.

Police said: "This just causes more and more pain for Holly and Jessica's parents."

'COP KILLER' IN WEDDING SCAM

He stole name of dead kid

by JERRY LAWTON

AN American accused of killing policeman Ian Broadhurst was only allowed to stay in the UK after marrying a Brit just 17 days before his visa ran out.

A court heard yesterday that bodybuilder David Bieber, 38, arrived here using the identity of a dead child.

He claimed to be Nathan Wayne Coleman - who'd died at the age of six in 1974. Despite arriving with a false passport and birth certificate, he was granted a six-month tourist visa.

But in 1997, just 17 days before it expired and he was due to be kicked out, he married Brit

BRIDE: Denise Dunn

Denise Dunn, then 31, at a ceremony in the Lake District.

Immigration officer Dominic Hugill said Home Secretary Jack Straw then granted "Nathan Wayne Coleman" permission to stay here - even though he'd technically been dead for 24 years.

Bieber carried on living here under the false name, Newcastle Crown Court heard. He and Denise later divorced.

Bieber is accused of shooting dead Pc Broadhurst, 34, in Leeds on Boxing Day last year.

He is also said to have shot fellow officers Neil Roper, 45, and James Banks, 27.

Bieber denies murder and attempted murder. The trial continues.

HARRY GUN DRAMA

'Partying' Prince is kidnap target

PRINCE HARRY'S bodyguards opened fire on an illegal hunting party in Argentina which got too close to the royal.

South American newspapers say guards fired several warning shots in the air to warn off the armed hunters near Buenos Aires.

They were on high-alert after an Argentinian murder suspect revealed that the Prince had become a kidnap target for gangsters.

by TOM SAVAGE

Crime bosses were said to have drawn up plans to nab the royal after hearing he kept giving his guards the slip to go to nightclubs.

Reports claim Harry, 20, who is taking a break before starting his military training, could now be sent home early from Argentina in disgrace. A local newspaper claims that the Prince...

● Flirted with local girls, but was too drunk to take it further.

● Ended up in a "lamentable state" after boozy nights out.

● Kept giving his security team the slip, sometimes on a motorbike with the guards chasing.

The reports say frustrated civil servants in Buenos Aires have called the British Embassy to ask them to "contain and control" the royal rebel. He reportedly spent last night at the Embassy and was due to catch an early flight to London.

A Palace spokesman said Harry might be home soon, but the trip had not been cut short.

He said shots had been fired at a hunting party, but he denied every other aspect of the Argentinian reports.

A British Embassy spokesman denied receiving any complaints about Prince Harry's behaviour.

News in brief

PAM TOP OF FLOPS

BAYWATCH has been voted the worst American TV import ever.

The show, which featured a gaggle of beauties as life-guards and made Pamela Anderson, 37, a star, was dismissed as "12 years of mind-numbing predictability".

Brit TV chiefs, polled to mark the 50th anniversary of the first US import in 1955, named The Simpsons as the best.

OUCH! Pammie

Pitta of despair

A JUDGE sympathised with four Turkish kebab shop workers who beat up two stag night drunks.

The workers, who admitted affray, kicked and lashed them with a belt. But Truro Crown Court heard David Watkins and Army officer Ceri John dressed as a Brownie and Brown Owl - argued over prices and pushed the owner in Newquay, Cornwall.

Judge Jeffrey Rucker said: "I can imagine the infinite tedium of having to confront the average English male, extremely drunk on the wrong side of a gallon of beer." The four must pay compensation and costs.

BRANSON TV SHOCK

TURN-OFF: Branson

RICHARD Branson's American TV show The Rebel Billionaire is going down like a lead balloon.

Subtitled Branson's Quest for the Best, it opened to dismal ratings and has dropped almost 20% since.

Promoted as Fox TV's answer to NBC hit series The Apprentice, starring Donald Trump, Branson's show averages fewer than five million viewers a week.

Woolies windfall

MORE than 2,000 staff at Woolworths are in line for a pre-Christmas windfall averaging £850.

The payout comes from Woolies' share incentive scheme, set up at the time of its demerger from Kingfisher in 2001.

Staff at its London head office, distribution centre in Swindon and network of 827 stores have saved up to £50 each month under the scheme. They can now use it to buy shares at 30.5p and bank an immediate profit on the current share price of 44p.

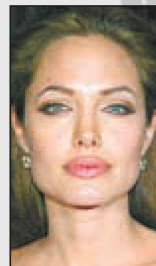

JOLIE SO HOT ON COL

ANGELINA Jolie and Colin Farrell played flirty-some-things on a US talk show.

They held hands and gazed into each other's eyes on ABC's The View.

And their performance has fed rumours of a romance after their steamy scenes in new movie Alexander.

Colin, 28, said: "Each time I meet up with Angelina I feel like I have known her a really long time."

Safety in Focus

MOTORING experts have rated Ford's new Focus the safest family car in Europe.

The vehicle is the first to be awarded a 100% "occupant protection" rating by the prestigious European New Car Assessment Programme.

The £11,000 motor, available from January, won maximum points in occupant safety after a series of stringent tests - including head-on 40mph smashes.

Ford UK's managing director Paul Thomas said: "We are always looking to push safety to new levels. That is why our in-house testing is so rigorous."

BACKPACK MURDER COP DOES A RUNNER

He may NEVER be jailed

by ANDREW DRUMMOND
THE policeman accused of killing two British backpackers ran out of a court in Thailand yesterday.

And Sergeant Somchai Wisetsingh's dramatic exit triggered fears he may NEVER be convicted of killing Vanessa Arcscott, 23, and Adam Lloyd, 25.

The officer - who originally admitted he had murdered the couple - ran from the courthouse in Kanchanaburi after a Thai judge approved his £14,000 bail. He also allowed the 38-year-old lawman to live in his guest house - just 300 metres from where most of the case's witnesses live.

Vanessa's father Graham was due to meet Baroness Symons of the Foreign Office yesterday - and he reacted with fury after the accused police officer was released.

He said: "It makes me wonder as a father where our children can ever have the opportunity to receive true justice in such a system."

Risk

Wisetsingh, who absconded for a month before being arrested, claimed: "I am not going to run away. I am not going to intimidate any witnesses."

But a respected businessman from the area said: "Somchai does not need to interfere with witnesses to intimidate them."

"The fact that he has got bail in such circumstances shows there are influential people on his side."

Judges have said they are too busy to hear the case continually - so they will only deal with it one day a month.

It could be three years before the defence begins. When he was arrested last month, Wisetsingh said he shot Adam Lloyd after the Brit hit and spat at him and claimed he shot Vanessa accidentally.

But a post mortem showed she was shot from above while lying down.

Wisetsingh now denies murder and killing to cover up a crime, plus two firearms charges.

VICTIMS:
Vanessa Arcscott and Adam Lloyd were shot dead in Thailand

Party time for Fatboy

TOP DJ Fatboy Slim is to host a string of beach parties around the globe.

The star, alias Norman Cook, 41, said getting back with wife Zoe Ball, 34, had fired his ambition. But a UK bash is unlikely after a fan died when he played Brighton two years ago.

It's bride 'n' gloom

NEWLYWEDS are taking out huge loans to pay for their dream honeymoons.

Research from National Savings and Investments shows one in three couples risk debt trouble, with those in the south of England splashing out the most - an average £3,000.

Kayne's making waves

KANYE West was mistaken for a radio trainee by a station bigwig.

The hip hop superman, 27, gatecrashed Choice Fm/Capital Radio's office party this week, between gigs.

I'm told: "A Capital boss asked how he was settling in."

"He explained he's a multi-platinum-selling artist, not a radio intern. The guy went bright red, but Kanye was laughing."

CAUGHT LIVE

VANHUNT
Jazz Café,
London

IT'S not hard to see how 24-year-old neo soul sensation Van Hunt's dad has rubbed off on him.

Swaggering onto the stage dressed in a crisp white shirt, floppy tie and fly-as-you-like jacket, Van looks every inch the pimp. Which was exactly what his father was.

Surrounded by four equally-fly fellas, Ohio-born Hunt immediately launched into a swirling psychedelic soul freakout that led into Get It Up.

Medleys of Al Green hits and James Brown golden oldies are wedged between his trademark 21st century soul and funk stew.

Marrying the most provocative parts of Prince's cannon to the gospel power of Sam Cooke and the inter-planetary funk of George Clinton, Hunt certainly proves he's one funky mutha.

CARL STROUD

3RD Wish look like having a hit on their hands. I'm told that Obsession has pre-sales of 40,000.

And it is even being championed by hip hoppers D12, who took the lads out to a lap-dancing club last week.

Not my cup of tea, but you lot obviously like them.

I'll blag

A FREEBIE FOR PALS OF CHRIS

CHRIS Evans has a good reason for hosting the Brit Awards – he wants free tickets for his mates.

Far from using the 15 million-strong TV audience to relaunch his broadcasting career, the ginger media mogul, 38, says he is only involved because of his love of music.

Multi-millionaire Chris certainly doesn't need the reported £250,000 he's being paid to host the glitzy show next year.

Boozy

A pal told me: "Chris doesn't crave the spotlight and he's not using the show just to get back in the public eye."

"He says the key factor to him signing up for it was so he could get free tickets for his mates to have a booze-up."

"He loves music and wants to introduce his pals to the big name musicians who will be attending."

"He certainly isn't doing it for the cash – he's already got loads."

Evans, thought to be

BRIT TWIT: Host Chris Evans

EXCLUSIVE

worth £50 million, has recently gone through a much-publicised split with his wife Billie Piper and recent forays into TV have all met with failure.

Live With Chris Moyles on Five was a disaster while Vernon Kaye show

Girls And Boys was quickly given the chop.

The Brit Awards is one of the highlights of the musical calendar and attracts a host of celebs.

Last year there were performances from The Darkness, 50 Cent, Black Eyed Peas, Busted and Duran Duran.

Organisers are hoping Chris – who hosted the awards in 1995 and 1996 – will bring an edgier side to the show, which has been lacking in recent years.

The bash takes place on February 9 at London's Earls Court and I reckon Chris will play a blinder – particularly if he hams it up for his mates.

LIBERTY X are to return after teaming up with rapper Run DMX.

The Brit band hooked up with Run after meeting through mutual friends Kool And The Gang.

Watch out for the single, Song For Lovers, early in the new year.

GIVE US A BELL

THIS week, I caught up with Charlie Simpson's Fightstar bandmate Dan Haight.

Are Busted splitting so Charlie can do Fightstar full-time?

I think I'll get into a lot of trouble if I answer that one. Sorry.

Tell me about the new single.

It's called Out Swimming In The Flood and should be out in February.

What's on your iPod?

Mainly American bands like Album Leaf, Armour For Sleep and Thrice.

Will you be releasing an album?

Not yet. At the moment we can only do singles and EPs because of complications with Charlie's Busted contract.

YANKS GET BED BUG

SIGNING: Natasha

NATASHA Bedingfield looks likely to emulate her brother's success in the States after inking a mega deal with a US label.

The These Words star had been the driving force behind a vicious bidding war between rival stables across the Atlantic.

But now powerhouse label Epic has finally managed to get her signature.

Big brother Daniel has already shifted upwards of 700,000 albums to the Bedingfield-loving Yanks.

And with little sister Natasha heading for their shores early next year, it looks like the lovely lady will be getting global exposure from now on.

But on the downside, that just means less of Natasha over here.

We'll just have to get used to it.
